

Time & Space

Rob Bevilacqua · Veröffentlicht: 22.08.2024

In the beginning there was nothing

Just a void of darkness and space

But then a spark ignited

And time began its race

The planets started spinning

And the stars began to shine

The universe awakening

With the passing of time

Matter formed and galaxies grew

A cosmic symphony in space

Eons passed and life began

Evolution setting the pace

From single cells to complex beings

The journey of life was on

A tapestry of moments

From dusk till dawn

Time is a river flowing

Ever onward, never still

A never-ending story

Of creation and of will

In every heartbeat, in every breath

The passage of time we feel

A constant reminder

That nothing stands still

So let's cherish each moment

And make the most of our time

For in the grand scheme of things

It's a gift so divine

The story of time unfolding

In the fabric of the universe

A symphony of moments

A never-ending verse